Shoshone informed the writer that there were only two others in the entire country, but the closest questioning failed to chelt the slightest information in regard to tastr localities. He would only shake his hand gravely and epaculate, "Bad medicine." ME BUBANEA STRIKE OF 1874

I stepped up the gang-plank to takea look at her interior. Her cabin was on the main deck, and magnificently finished and furnished. The engine glistened like a new dollar. Everything about her showed that no expense had been spared by her builders. After looking her over to my satisfaction I concluded to take a look at her register, which showed that she had been built for the Great Western railroad of Canada to ply between Toronto and Ogdensburgh, and that having no use for her after the Suspension bridge at Niagara Falls had been finished, she had been sold to parties in New York, who had fitted her up as an ocean steamer by cutting off her guards and upper cabins. My survey satisfied me that the claims of the Morgan line to having the fastast steamer in the Guilf of Mexico were to be demolished if the two steamers should ever come together in fair, smooth water. There was some hitch about the Tehnanteppe line getting into operation, and the Coatzacoalcos lay at the wharf in New Grieans for some time. Finally, to get semething out of her, it was announced that she would enter the New Orleans, Galveston, and Vera Cruz trade, and the day of her departure was fixed the same as that of the Morgan. Every one knew that it meant a race, although the captain and agents of the Coatzacoalcos stoutly denied that such was the intention. The steamers which run in that trade then usually left their wharves in New Orleans at 8 o'clock in the morning, and promptly at that hour the Morgan hauled in her lines,

An old sea captain in conversation with a News reporter recently, speaking of a race between ocean steamers across the Atlantic reported by telegraph the other day, said he was reminded of a race that he witnessed once between two steamers from New Orleans to Galveston, Texas.
